DNA profiling (also called DNA fingerprinting, DNA testing, or DNA typing) is the process of determining an individual's DNA characteristics, which are as unique as fingerprints. DNA analysis intended to identify a species, rather than an individual, is called DNA barcoding.. DNA profiling is commonly used as a forensic technique in criminal investigations, for example comparing one or more ...

Molecular cloning is the laboratory process used to create recombinant DNA. It is one of two most widely used methods, along with polymerase chain reaction (PCR), used to direct the replication of any specific DNA sequence chosen by the experimentalist. There are two fundamental differences between the methods.

In the health and agricultural sciences, biological materials were once freely and widely exchanged. But more and more, these materials have gained commercial value. Public sector institutions, as well as private companies, have recognized, therefore, that proprietary protection of these materials may be necessary. Material transfer agreements (MTAs) are legal instruments that define terms for ...
